

Cyclone Iggy Causes Deaths in Indonesia

According to the National Disaster Management Agency in Indonesia, Cyclone Iggy struck the country and has caused 14 deaths in a four-day period. Other than the death toll, another 60 were injured during the storm. Over two thousand homes were damaged; and impacts were cast across 35 towns in Java and Bali. As of Sunday the 29th, the storm was off the northwestern coast of Australia, where a cyclone warning for the coastal area from Onslow to Coral Bay has been issued.
