

Indonesia Volcanic Eruption Rouses Alert

Mt. Lokon in the northern Sulawesi province of Indonesia has erupted several times since the first burst last Thursday, July 14. Although the smoke was estimated to reach the height at which the nearby flights may be affected, there was no immediate report of casualties. Up to Sunday the 17th, the number of evacuees climbed to over 5,200.